

Learn the spellings: because, again, water.

Make these words into plurals: bush, glass and watch.

Write a sentence using a question mark starting: How do...

What do you think will happen next in your reading book? What makes you think this?

Write a sentence describing a car using three different adjectives.

Draw your favourite book character based on their description in your reading book!

Can you unscramble this sentence so it makes sense? in mud pig The is the.

Add in an apostrophe to correct this sentence: I am going to Janices house tonight.

How does the prefix re-change the words: appear, do and paint?

Can you find five interesting adjectives in your reading book?

Try and use the adjectives you found yesterday when you are talking today!

Learn the spellings: wild, climb, most.

Make these common nouns into plurals: computer and country.

Correct and rewrite this sentence to include capital letters. her name is pearl and she's from paris.

Read a page of your reading book aloud to a family member.

Where does the apostrophe go in the word doesnt?

Add the suffix -ed to change the tense of these words: smile, flip and hope.

What makes a character heroic?

Design your own heroic character and use five adjectives to describe them!

Write a sentence including the words red, ball and heavy.

Learn the spellings: only, both, every.

Can you write three examples of verbs?

Write the plurals for these words: sheep and goose.

Make up an extra character for your reading book. Draw and label a picture of them!

Which of these words need capital letters? harry, baby and spain.

Circle all of the words that are not real: spot, joot, rot, cot, not, fot.

Underline the verb and add an exclamation mark to this sentence : The dog was running very quickly.

What is a proper noun? What is the rule about proper nouns?

Join these simple sentences using a conjunction to make a compound sentence: Kiera wore a coat to school. It was very hot outside.